TWO AGENTS IN PRODUCTION, OCTOBER 2026

The content system no longer waits on me.

Both agents live in the company Gemini Enterprise tenant, answer only from locked 66degrees sources, and are used by colleagues, not by me. The next two pages are live screenshots, captured today.

S AGENT 01 · 66° SUCCESS STORIES

Any 66er asks a plain question, gets the right proof point with the approved Doc link.

What it does: retrieves from the full success story library, structured as client, industry, problem, solution, approach, result, links. No web, no other files.
Who uses it: the whole company, Sales to Delivery, searching by industry, problem or solution, never by client name.

E AGENT 02 · 66° EVENT DESK

The events team names the event and gets on brand invite emails, ads, reg page and social.

What it does: reads the event tracker in Drive, writes every format against the messaging canon, CEO voice rules and a hidden 12 point checker, with character counts on every line.
Who uses it: the events team, so event copy no longer waits on one writer.

TURNAROUND AND REVIEW FIGURES FROM MY OWN EVENT CAMPAIGN TRACKING, 2026

■ PROOF 01 · RETRIEVAL BY PROBLEM, NOT BY CLIENT NAME

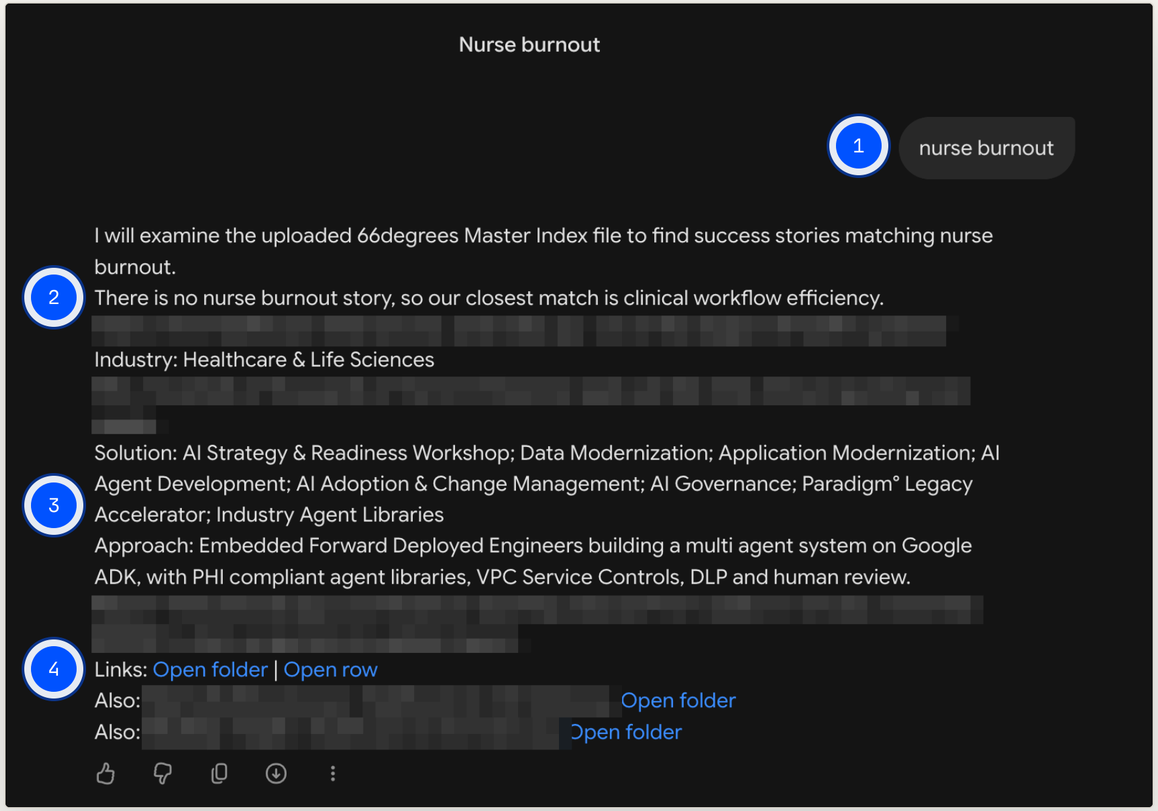

Two word curveball in, sourced answer out.

Query typed exactly as a seller would: “nurse burnout”. No such story exists, so the agent says so, returns the closest match, and links the approved folder and index row. Client names and client numbers are pixelated for this application.

AGENT HOME, AS COLLEAGUES SEE IT

1. The query. Two words, no client name, the way people really search.
2. Honest miss, nearest match. It states there is no nurse burnout story before answering.
3. Fixed structure. Client, industry, why, solution, approach, result, every time.
4. Sourced. Open folder and Open row links into the Master Index, plus two alternates.

■ PROOF 02 · EVENT FIRST DRAFTS IN MINUTES, A PERSON STILL SIGNS OFF

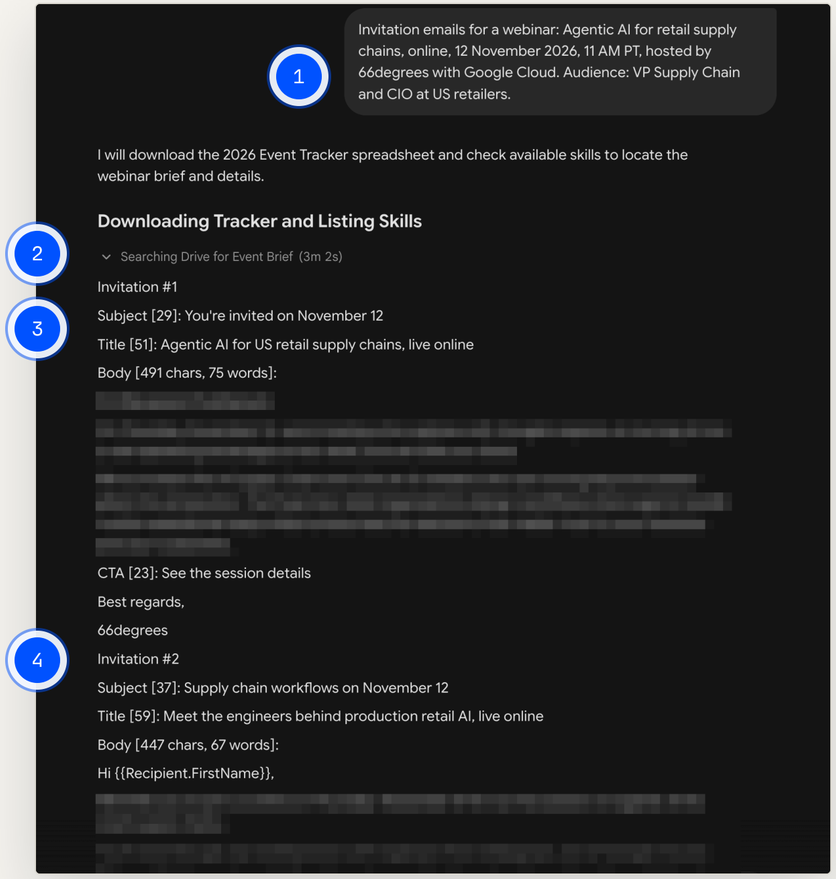

One line brief in, an invite sequence out, with counts on every line.

Brief typed in one sentence for a hypothetical webinar. The agent checked the event tracker in Drive first, then wrote numbered invitations with subject, title and body lengths. Email bodies are pixelated; the structure is the point.

AGENT HOME WITH ITS THREE STARTERS

1. The brief. Event, format, date, host, audience, in one sentence.
2. Checks source first. Searches Drive for the event tracker and brief before writing.
3. Template enforced. Subject, title, body, CTA, each with its character count.
4. Sequence, not one email. Invitation #1, #2 and onward, each a different angle.
